

Since 1981, HTP America Inc. has supplied its customers with the best MIG welders and plasma cutters and made them available at competitive prices. Why? The company has a long-standing interest in commitment to customer satisfaction. HTP makes sure not only that their products operate at an optimum level of performance, but that HTP customers get a sense of the product's value. HTP America offers its customers practical solutions for all their welding needs.

Based in Arlington Heights, Illinois, HTP America Inc. services customers from coast to coast. Specializing in welders and accessories like spool guns and smoke eliminators, HTP employees possess a comprehensive knowledge of their company's product line. From the top down, HTP America has built a relationship between its products and employees, tried and tested through years of experience in the field.

HTP has so much confidence in their employees' knowledge of company products, they have set up a hotline (1-800-USA-WELD) to give customers the benefit of expert advice, whether that's comparing welder models or simply finding the right machine for a complex job. They can point you toward versatile products that will cover a variety of situations, or give you information about newer technologies that could simplify and speed up your project.

If the product you order isn't satisfactory, HTP offers a 90-day money back guarantee, so customers can rest assured that the company is invested in helping them find the right answer. At HTP America, the emphasis is not hard-selling, it's providing customers with information, because HTP trusts that the fit between a machine and job sells itself.

For more information, visit <http://www.htpweld.com/>, where you can find complete product information and request a company catalogue.

Article Provided By: <http://www.Quick-Carbuilders.com>

June 2007, © Quick-Carbuilders